Whether you are optimizing, upgrading, or moving to a completely different electronic health record (EHR) system, you are making a large financial investment for the care of your patients. You have organizational changes to contend with, staff to train, and interoperability, compliance and regulatory standards to reach. If you don't implement your EHR correctly, the future care of your patients and the financial stability of your organization could be in jeopardy. Optimum Healthcare IT has the people, the tools, and the experience to ensure that your EHR is implemented correctly and smoothly.

In healthcare, the EHR is the most important technology tool used to provide care to patients. If not configured correctly, both the quality of care and the financial stability of an organization can be at risk.

The EHR changes the way your staff works. The implementation process requires careful attention to how change is managed and how your staff handles it. Whether you are a large multi-facility IDN, an Academic Medical Center, a single hospital, or a physician network; our on-site executive leadership team can lead you through a successful implementation.

There is much more to implementation than just setting up the EHR system. Some of the most complex areas of your implementation will require coordination, planning, and work across multiple teams. Infrastructure, reporting, data conversion, interfaces, and more require expert resources that understand best practices and have a deep system and implementation know-how.

With so many options available for your organization, what differentiates Optimum Healthcare IT from the competition is our focus on your success. When you partner with Optimum, you know the team implementing your system has been carefully selected to provide the best fit for your organization.
