Healthcare organizations face increasing risks regarding the protected health information entrusted to them by their patients. The growth in electronic health records (EHRs), government regulation, technology risks, and recent efforts by state-sponsored hacking groups amplify the need for healthcare organizations to mature their information security programs.

At the same time, the demands on healthcare IT resources are at an all time high as organizations struggle to balance managing risk with new or optimizing business-driven initiatives. Technology changes including EHR systems, mobility platforms, and patient engagement centered deployments as well as organizational changes to prepare for valuebased care, MACRA and evolving care delivery models add new and more complex challenges to IT environments. Optimum can be your advisor to help navigate through these changes and ensure that your systems and data remain secure and accessible.

Average cost of a data breach is $3.86 million[1]

Per capita cost of each record is $148[1]

As leaders in HIT implementations, Optimum Healthcare IT has the experts who know HIPAA and HITECH rules and risk management requirements. We recognize the importance of controlling access to the confidential data that our clients maintain. Optimum assists clients in compliance, audit and enforcement activities regarding HIPAA privacy, security and security breach notification for covered entities.

Optimum has broad experience working inside healthcare organizations. We understand healthcare operations, the current demands on healthcare IT staff, and the Office of Civil Right's (OCR) expectations for compliance with HIPAA and HITECH. Our consultants have served as hospital CIOs, CTOs, and CISOs. We have the experience and insight to share industry best practices and solutions to common problems. Whatever the engagement, we deliver an individualized experience, customized to the needs and culture of your organization.

> It is our mission to deliver best practices and leading IT solutions for a stronger healthcare community.
